SUBJECT: Improving Federal Procurement Data System Reporting

Continued dedication to improving the data reported to Federal Procurement Data System (FPDS) is commendable, and DoD organizations' efforts have improved the accuracy and reliability of the data significantly over the last several years. However, there is room for additional improvement. Results of the annual verification and validation process, an in-process Government Accountability Office audit on the reliability of data on USASpending.gov, and the development of the contract reporting scorecard have underscored the need to offer a few policy clarifications and reminders:

- Orders under federal government contracts and agreements. All task and delivery orders and calls placed under federal government issued contracts and agreements are required to be reported to FPDS regardless of dollar value, notwithstanding the method used to place the order. These orders are accomplished using Federal Acquisition Regulation (FAR) part 8 and/or 16 procedures and are not considered micro-purchases even if the value is less than the micro-purchase threshold as defined in FAR part 2. Defense FAR Supplement (DFARS) Procedures, Guidance, and Information (PGI) subpart 4.606(5) addresses how to report these actions when they are both procured and paid using the governmentwide purchase card (GPC). The PGI will be updated to clarify the instructions for non-GPC orders as well.
- Micro-purchases. Purchase orders accomplished using FAR part 13 procedures, where there is no underlying federal contract or agreement, which are valued less than or equal to the micro-purchase threshold as defined in FAR part 2 for non-contingency operations are not required to be reported. However, they may be if the Service or Agency so chooses. The PGI will be updated to clarify this requirement. In the case of awards that are awarded and performed, or purchase is made, outside the United States, the actions must be individually reported if they are valued at $25,000 or more (rather than the micro-purchase threshold of $30,000 in FAR part 2) in order to comply with the Federal Funding Accountability and Transparency Act.

- Description of Requirement. DoD must do a better job of providing clear and “plain English” descriptions of what is being procured in the “Description of Requirement” data field on the contract action report (CAR). Acronyms do not equate to plain English, nor does the use of DoD or military jargon. National stock numbers (NSNs) or other part numbers should only be used with an accompanying English description as to what the number represents. In the other extreme, users should not be overly general (e.g., “services”). Users should also be reminded when reporting modification actions to identify what they are procuring in the “Description of Requirement” data field; not what the modification is doing (e.g., “exercise Option”).
- Place of Performance. Identifying the place of performance continues to be an issue, primarily in procurements for supplies. PGI subpart 4.606 indicates that for supplies, the place of performance is where manufacturing occurred or, for finished items, where they were taken from inventory. This instruction will be updated to clearly link to answers supplied by contractors when they complete the related place of performance FAR provisions. Unless the contractor indicated differently in the provisions, the contracting officer can assume the contractor’s address on the contract meets the place of performance definition.
- Dates. “Completion Date” and “Estimated Ultimate Completion Date” continue to be two of the most inaccurately completed data fields. This appears primarily due to users not updating the fields when modifications are issued to exercise options and/or otherwise extend the period of performance. The data in these fields is often used by others to determine contracts still in their period of performance. Renewed emphasis must be placed on updating these fields. Additionally, consider introducing business rules or warnings in your contract writing systems where possible to help address the issue.
- Changing contractor information. It is very important for users to report modifications that change the contractor’s name or address; and to choose the correct value in the “Reason for Modification” data field on the CAR when doing so.
 - o Choose the “Vendor Address Change” value for modifications changing the contractor’s address. FPDS will pull the contractor’s latest address information from the System for Award Management (SAM).
 - o Choose the “Vendor DUNS Change” value for modification changing the contractor’s name, Contractor and Government Entity (CAGE) code, and/or DUNS number. FPDS will pull the contractor’s latest DUNS, name, and address from SAM.
 - o Choose the “Novation” value for modifications incorporating novation agreements. FPDS will pull the contractor’s latest DUNS, name, and address from SAM, as well as allow the contracting officer to change the size status of the contractor on that CAR.
- Late reporting. Remind your workforce of the requirement that CARs be finalized in FPDS within three days of the action being issued. While end of the year volume can stress compliance with this requirement, DoD needs to improve our timeliness overall. Over 43K FY13 actions with approximately $1.7B in obligations were submitted for the first time (in draft or as a final CAR) after November 1, 2013; well after the end of the fiscal year and the government furlough (see attachment).

The PGI will be updated to cover the specific FPDS reporting instructions in part 4.6 based on the above. My action officer for FPDS reporting is Lisa Romney, janice.l.romney.civ@mail.mil or 703-697-4396.

and Acquisition Policy
