

Initial Nominations: CWP Proposal Evaluations

Basic	Strong	Excellent
US Project Management US project team committed to execute project	US contributions fully committed to project plan Legal and technical reviews in process	Full commitment to project by project team; All reviews completed; issue mitigation in process or identified issues resolved
Foreign Partner(s) Defense government organization partner committed to contributing to project plan	Defense government partner(s) with written commitment Series of technical discussions held Mature project plan with listed contributions from each partner	High-level support (written endorsements) Technical discussion completed; agreement already in development or in place Solid project plan with committed contributions from each partner
RDT&E content Project clearly supports request for 6.3 RDT&E funding; R&D elements by each partner is clearly identified in nomination	CWP request supports a mix of R&D elements within project R&D elements are equally conducted by US and each of the foreign partner(s)	CWP request supports R&D elements for new/unique capabilities Foreign partner(s) are conducting key R&D elements of the project
US Benefit Clearly meets an identified DoD need; advocate(s) listed in nomination	Clearly meets an identified need of multiple COCOMs and Services	High-level support (written endorsements)
Equitability of project contributions CWP request is no more than 50% of total US contributions AND Each foreign partner(s) contributions equal to the US' OR is deemed equitable in financial review	US contributions (other than CWP) are primarily financial vs. non-financial	Significant dedicated and programmed financial contributions from US project lead organization (vice other funding sources)
Deliverable(s) Project has tangible deliverables (reports, studies, prototypes, end-items)	Development significantly increases maturity of deliverables (significant TRL increase, delivers prototype or end item)	Project will deliver fieldable solution that will quickly be delivered to support current operations
Transition Transition path is committed to by an organization in writing if project completes successful demonstration(s)	Transition path is committed to by an organization in writing, and funding is currently is currently being organized or sought	Transition path is committed to by an organization; budget for transition is already in place