Jason Brys

Program Manager and Senior Flight Test Engineer; Performing duties as Acting Manager of the Military Certification Branch (MCB)

Jason Brys is the Acting Manager of the Military Certification Branch (MCB) while performing his other duties as a Program Manager and Senior Flight Test Engineer in the Branch. There he leads a variety of collaborative efforts together with Department of Defense stakeholders to bridge military and civil airworthiness systems for Military Commercial Derivative Aircraft programs. Prior to the MCB, Jason worked at the FAA's Wichita Aircraft Certification Office and the Department of the Navy as a Flight Test Engineer. Jason's background includes managing a diverse array of type certification programs and flight tests of multiple military and civilian fixed and rotary-wing platforms. In addition, Jason is a member of the FAA's Human Factors Coordination Team and serves as a focal point for human factors issues in aircraft certification. He is a certificated pilot as well as an airframe and powerplant mechanic with inspection authorization and obtained a Bachelor's Degree in Aerospace Engineering from Embry Riddle Aeronautical University.
