

Department of Defense Intellectual Property Forum 2023

Mary Delahunty

Vice President & General Counsel | Invocon, Inc

Mrs. Delahunty serves as the Vice President and General Counsel for Invocon, Inc., a systems engineering company specializing in wireless, sensor network solutions for modal analysis applications for both commercial and government customers in civilian commercial space vehicles and DOD launch vehicles. In addition to handling all legal, contractual and compliance matters for the corporation; she has over 30 years of experience in all phases of government contract work including proposal drafting and submission, contract negotiations, contract administration, contract closeout, and DCMA and DCAA financial and property audits.

Specifically focused on government contracting with small business, she is the Southwest Regional Chair for the Small Business Technology Council, a non-profit organization focused on advocating for technology-oriented small businesses with respect to government contracting. She also has memberships in the Society for Human Resource Management, and National Contract Management Association.

She previously served in volunteer leadership positions with the Small Law Department Network of the Association of Corporate Counsel (ACC) and was also a regular columnist for the ACC Docket (a membership publication) as the “Small Law” columnist from 2010 to 2020.

Mrs. Delahunty has been a regular presenter at conferences presented by the American Conference Institute and ACC on a variety of government contracting topics including: DCAA audits, subcontracting best practices, and intellectual property in government contracts..