James McEwen

Assistant General Counsel, Intellectual Property, Sikorsky, a Lockheed Martin Company

James McEwen is Assistant General Counsel, Intellectual Property, for Lockheed Martin Corporation, where for the past 10 years he worked at Sikorsky with a focus on complex IP procurement issues for prime and subcontractors, including multiple proposals for and disputes with Department of Defense and international customers. He has worked with Lockheed on Department of Defense data rights policy, both through industry groups such as AIA, and as a Special Government Employee for the Government Industry Advisory Panel established under Section 813 of the 2016 NDAA. He also regularly provides lectures on IP issues within Lockheed and to outside groups, and is a coauthor of IP AND TECHNOLOGY IN GOVERNMENT CONTRACTS: PROCUREMENT AND PARTNERING AT THE STATE AND FEDERAL LEVEL (2023 EDITION), as well as its prior editions since 2009.

Prior to coming to Sikorsky, Jim was in the metro DC area focusing on commercial IP strategies involving patent prosecution, and was also a patent attorney for the Office of General Counsel for the Navy, including for Naval Air Systems Command. He is a graduate of University of Texas (B.S. ASE) and George Washington University Law School (JD) with honors.
