Input: For Section 872, Value Analysis for the Determination of Price Reasonableness, ITAPS recommend that the DFARS case defines value analysis to include, but not limit to:

- Leveraging innovation and investment in new technology;
- Reducing or eliminating development cost and time;
- Cost savings from using commercial industrial base;
- Utilizing existing product support infrastructure and manufacturing;
- Leveraging a commercial sales base to reduce the overall costs of every item produced;
- Shifting inventory carrying costs and associated risks to the contractor;
- Shifting the risk for supply chain integrity and parts obsolescence; and
- Avoiding additional procurement and/or redevelopment costs for mature product lines.
