SUBJECT: Organizational Name Change to Defense Pricing, Contracting, and Acquisition
Policy

Effective immediately, the organization formerly known as Defense Pricing and Contracting (DPC), has been renamed as Defense Pricing, Contracting, and Acquisition Policy (DPCAP).

This new name reflects an expanded organizational portfolio to include both acquisition and contracting responsibilities, and synergies to be realized across these functions. Joining the existing four directorates [Contract Policy (CP), Contracting e-Business (CeB), Defense Acquisition Regulations System (DARS), and Price, Cost and Finance (PCF)], we welcome a fifth directorate--Acquisition Policy and Innovation (API). Under the leadership of Mr. David Cadman, Mr. Mark Krzysko, and Mr. Richard Gray, API manages: the adaptive acquisition framework (AAF) acquisition policies, acquisition data analytics, the IP Cadre, the Acquisition Innovation Research Center (AIRC), and the Defense Civilian Training Corps (DCTC). Website updates to add content and reflect these changes are in process.
